

BECOME AN ASSESSOR

Each year, the Ireland Excellence Awards Process requires teams of high calibre assessors capable of evaluating applicants. As applications come from a wide range of organisations from all parts of Ireland, sector coverage and balance are important considerations in the selection of assessors. Assessors need to possess a high level of expertise and experience in business improvement, together with a balanced approach and a reputation for integrity.

Contributing as an assessor represents a significant development opportunity, both from an individual and organisational perspective. In this video Conor Jordan, Business Development Manager at Norman Emerson & Sons talks about the benefits of having been an Assessor.
